Reframing Addiction: Implications for Clinical Practice

12:00 PM - 01:00 PM EST

Mary Hinson,
pdc@lccnc.org

Addiction is a multifaceted issue that has and continues to impact the lives of individuals across the life span. It is imperative that providers understand the fundamental elements of addiction to effectively guide, support, and assist clients in their journey towards health and healing. This presentation will provide an overview of the impact, risk, and health implication associated with substance use and other addiction related disorders. In addition, learners will gain brief techniques, strategies, and resources to consider in clinical practice.

Ready for that licensure upgrade?

This program is an LCCNC original presentation... created BY Counselors FOR Counselors. If you are a LCMHC with five or more years of professional clinical experience, you qualify to apply for your supervisor license! One of the first steps on your supervisor journey is to get the required 45 hours of supervision training required before applying for your 'S' to the licensure board. This program is designed to: Describe the historical platform for clinical supervision, supervision as a benchmark for effective mental health counseling, and the vital roles of theory, current research, and multicultural awareness in supervision; Identify the definition of clinical supervision and responsibilities/practice standards for the North Carolina LCMHC Supervisor license; Differentiate central principles of clinical supervision models, the responsibilities supervisors have for both supervisees and clients, the roles/functions of clinical supervisors, and conflicts and challenges that can arise in clinical supervision; Distinguish the demarcation between counseling relationships and supervision relationships; Discuss the necessity for the supervision of supervisors as a standard of intentional, aware, and ethical practice.
